I modeled this my little pony girl a while back to get her printed and she finally arrived over Christmas. More images can be found on the product page. Unfortunately her little finger broke off during transport, but otherwise the model came out great! I would love to make more if there is any sort of interest.

I love the style. Is this something unique you came up with, or is anthropomorphic my little ponies a thing?

I actually thought that I had a new idea by doing this. So yeah I came up with it myself but when I googled around later, I found that a few more people seem to have had similar ideas before me .
