Is there a green strong and flexible material planned? (Or a yellow?) I would love to be able to print my stuff in a lime green!

Indeed, green would be great. I know some Shapeways competiters that have green plastic, but they are more expensive.

Yes add Green and Yellow to the color pallette of S&F, we would also love to see Orange prints but maybe that's because we're Dutch ?
(no switching please ;)

More colors would be great. I'm currently working on a board game concept and greater color variety would allow for more players. I vote for lime green, yellow and orange.

What is the limiting factor on Strong and flexible color selection? Is it color consistency, minimum quantities, or something else?

I would also very much like to see green, yellow and orange. Perhaps both lime green and a darker one, like moss.
But just more colors would be really great.

Unfortunately some colors don't turn out well with polishing whereas others are better without it (black).

Also, Mitchell that's a funny comment, you know what she means ;)

EDIT:

ITS OUT! YAY!
