I just now placed an order that is to be shipped to someone else as a present. I noticed that "my" shipping address is now his.

Maybe it's an idea to not save the shipping address as a default. Just make it an option, put a checkbox there that allows you to choose whether to save it as your address or just use it once, or perhaps even add it to your "address book"?

Good idea!

We will update our shipping interface soon to reflect the fact that people can ship models to other people also.

Thanx,

Joris

That would be great since shipping to other locations would also my personal favorite ...

Hi Woody64 ,

We're working on it right now. Before the end of this year you'll get the option to ship it to another address
