
Subject: Hello from a retired Kodak engineer
Posted by AAK_AAK on Mon, 02 Jul 2012 14:10:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello to the Shapeway community. I've been retired for over six years now. I wrote a small text on Random dot stereograms in the early 90s when that art form was popular. That got me interested in 3D objects and all the various file formats for describing such. Now with much more time to devote and a nice CAD system to play with, the closet 3D designer has come out to build new things. A best description of most of my work can currently be found on the July 2, 2012 posting on the Sanibel island blog. It is at this link-<http://www.oceansreach.com/sanibel-island/> and describes the seashells that I've been making at Shapeways. Other favorite hobbies include kayaking, biking, kites, and playing with fast vehicles on ice. Enjoy. -Andy
