Hello,
I need a plastic Bathtub 120cm X 65cm High 45cm where my children could take a bath.
Do you think is it feasible ? How much would it cost (design + printing) ?

In case it is not, what's the maximum size their printing service would allow?

Thanks.
Donatello

Check the design rules.. for WSF, the max build volume is 66x35x55cm and that size would cost something on the order of $600.00 to print.

Hello,

I am somewhat new to the 3D printing and design, however not new to the creative process. I have multiple figures I would like to have 3D printed, and I have detailed sketches of all of them. These final figures would be prototypes for a business of mine, so I wanted to make sure all designs and final files ownership would reside with me for business purposes.

Please let me know if you would be interested in the work, and I can send over the sketches of the items I would like to create. Thanks so much.

Jake

Hey,

My name is Arletny Rodriguez, and as you may have already assumed I'm in search of a 3D modeler for a reasonable price. I'm an accessories design student at the fashion institute of technology. How does your pricing work?

Hi there,

I am looking for a 3D designer that can design a vinyl toy figure for me - robot/Munny style. I have a prototype that I can send a photo of, all you have to do is copy it - shape and the texture. As a designer I will want to have a hand in creating the textures. I want to make a few different textures for the same model.

If this is all ok for you can you send me a quote for a model figure. I have supplied an image of what I might want it to look like. Forget about the yellow base or background Diorama. Just the figure with removable hat - head and arms.

I'm not sure if this is the right forum for this, but I just wanted to say how pleased I was with the work that Spuke Animation did for me. I have an invention that I needed to be rendered in 3D. Spuke was great on all levels- the price was affordable, the work was done quickly, and well. And they stayed with the project even after it was done to iron out the inevitable bugs that come with inventing. I am a sculptor by profession, so what I needed to be made was quite specific, and Spuke met and even exceeded my expectations for the design. I would whole-heartedly recommend them for any projects that one might have. And I intend on using them again in the future for more projects. Great job!
