Thanks. I'm just worried about the spots being there on the 3D printed model.

Any chance you can make the item public for us to see it? or email Natalia and/or myself the item number. If you don't know how to find that, send us the link for the item, the number is in the link.

Got it, forwarded it to the ones that are looking into it. We will let you know what we find out. My mother always told me my freckles we're kisses from angels, but I don't think that's the case here

Alright got an answer. This is a known render only issue for large files. They're working on a fix but in the mean time, your prints will show up fine and unintended freckle free.

Great news, thanks for chasing that up. I'll be sure to order once I've finished coloring the model, thread can be closed now then.
