Here is my recent house necklace design:

This listing includes the house only. Chain NOT included. This design is capable of fitting on any small chain of your choosing. You can string the chain or small leather or silk cord through the attic space in the house which is hollow from end to end. The house in the picture was polished a bit by me after it was printed. 3d printing does cause slight surface variations and the house you receive may have a slightly more pitted surface. I also sell a house ring which you can find in my shop.

This design features a cute little house that I designed to look like the stereotypical pre colonial house often chosen as a model for doll house constructions. There are details on all four sides of the house. Center of the house is open and you can peer into the house through the windows and the door. One side features cloud-like little bushes while the other side displays a jagged shape to represent grass. The attic space is also empty (going all the way through) so that this can be strung on a chain and worn as a necklace.
