As by Ebay, you can always select "other items from the same seller"

Why is there no possibility to do the same at the SW website ?

I often find an interesting design, but am unable to see all the other public designs from the designer....

Did I miss something or is there any solution ..?

Thx

What browser/OS combination are you using, that you do not get the rather large box with the caption "more from this designer" and even a few thumbnail images at the bottom of the column that starts with "material options" ? (To the right of the model image when you view a single item)
