Goodmorning

I just saw my neat extended shop description using tables has been decimated :-/

It looks like all <table> etc element are filtered out on render time?

So I had to remove it replace with something simpler.

Would lvoe to have at least some layout options in there, to present shop sections etc.

Cheers,

Stijn

Hi Stijn,

It has not quite been decimated, just moved - your shop sections are now in the side bar, neatly listed with hyperlinks.

You can edit those under My Shop Settings - you can add sections and rearrange them.

This should make it easier for everyone to arrange their shop by categories!

We're working on making it easier to customize and manage your shop

Well, what I mean was that I had a nicely formatted extended description with four columns.

Today it looks like this:

(it is a bit scary that such invasive changes go online unannounced..)

How do I arrange sections? I only see add and delete?

I find the right sided list of all shop sections to be unpractical.
Sometimes I want "hidden" sections, and or arrange differently than alphabetical.
Also, simple "sub-sections" like jewelry - pendants make that list look bloated.

I preferred the table/column mode I had written in my extended description.

Cheers,

Stijn
