Got a new print in today, and it looks really awesome except for a small piece of the wing that is missing. Looks like it may have been damaged in shipping, but i didnt notice it in the bag.

The rest of the models looked great, and on a positive note, these were super clean. Virtually no wsf powder left over, so the details looked great.

I like that design! What software do you use? Too bad, that one wing is broken, but it still looks great!
