The clients will be able to rotate and zoom the model with just the mouse using the left click and the scroll. This way, the clients will be able to actually view the entire model, not only just a few renders of the model.

For a demo, check the Sample file attached, download and open it in any internet browser, other than Internet Explore (use the right click and "Open with" function).

I hope you enjoy this new feature!

Greetings: My friends and I have some shapeways designs that need a bit of "tweaking", plus want to make a stainless steel brand for an upcoming Burning Man event. The brand we need is a simple one. We need a reverse printing of the words "Burnal Equinox" in Ariel Bold font, measuring 1& 1/4' for the outside diameter. The brand part (yes, we weld it on to a steel handle, put it in the fire, and brand leather and wood with it) has to be 1/4" thick, 3/16" of that is background, for a raised relief. We will pay for your time and for Shapeways to make it in stainless steel. (Hey, if you have an idea to make it more interesting, but still legible, we are open. I can send you some pictures of what we have for our other brands)

We have 2 brands in Shapeways design that are not thick enough, so can get you the files to enlarge the outside circles.

In addition, we have some little Burning Men necklaces that need the date below them changed from 2012 to 2013.

Right now, we need to get moving on the Bernal Equinox brand, the event is March 2!

Please let me know if this sounds like the job for you, and what you estimate the time will be for your services.

We are in California, USA, where are you?

Thanks so much,

I am an inventor and needed some precision parts designed in CAD for 3-D printing. I hired Andrei Buletin and couldn't be happier! His work was excellent and he provided fast turnaround. His prices are also very fair for the high quality of work he provides. I have just given him more parts to design and I am recommending him to all of my friends that need CAD work.

I hired Andrei to model a ship for me. Andrei was from the start a true professional. Andrei kept a positive line of communications open. Sent me updates on the ship, asked for my input, listened to what suggestions I had, and came thru like a true champion.

Andrei is a modeler, that in my view, is worth dealing with for those very reasons.

Prices are very fair. Doesn't take your money, then ignore you, or put your project on the back burner.

Andrei says something, you can take it too the bank. In My Honest Opinion.

Andrei, you stepped up to the challenge, and proved your worth.
Your positive, upbeat, willing, eager, and your polite.
Rare traits in the human race these days.

I just finished a project with Andrei and I am very pleased with the services Andrei was able to provide. His professionalism and skill are outstanding. Lines of communication were open and easy, and the work was done in the promised amount of time for the reasonably quoted price. I will use Andrei again for my next project!

Uh.. no.. please discuss your affairs offline.

It doesn't belong here in the public forum.

From the forum rules:

Think before you post

Some things can be upsetting, but take a breath before you shoot back. If you're being demeaning, or are hurling personal attacks on others, you probably won't make many friends.

Plus you run the risk of being banned. And that sucks. Please don't make us do that.

Is there a Shapeways-acceptable way to review contractors, or to warn other people of potential problems?

Buyer (and Patron) Reviews been discussed here in the forum some before, but Shapeways hasn't found a good way to do it. The trouble is that things can escalate out of hand quickly, and certain comments can reach the extent of slander. Shapeways can't afford to let things get that far out of line.

I'm sorry you had a bad experience.

As Stony said, this part of the forum exists for people to find each other, but Shapeways can not vet, recommend, nor mediate in these transactions.

We are working on a better way for 3D modellers and people with ideas to find each other, but for now this is the only place.

I am sorry if there were miscommunications, but please do keep these discussions private.

Best,
Natalia

I would strongly recommend AGAINST anyone hiring Andrei Buletin.

I contacted him on March 24th, 2013 to help build a storage box for my bicycle. We reached an agreement, and I sent him a 50% deposit, which he confirmed receiving back in March.

After that, however, he never finished the project, and never refunded my deposit.

I sent him him many emails that were just ignored, until I threatened to report him for fraud. I would send him 5-10 emails over a month long period, and not hear back until I threatened him, and then I would get excuses like (these are from different emails, on different dates):

Quote:

"I apologize for the late reply, but I have been experiencing some problems with my email account and had some emails coming delayed or not coming at all."

Quote:

"I think that somewhere there is a problem with the email, as you are not the only one complaining for not receiving my emails. I can assure you about my good intentions"

Quote:

"I am sorry for the lack of any reply, but I am having some severe health issues that keep me away from working. I understand you are disappointed, but I didn't chose to have health issues."

This went on for several months, until in May, nearly 2 months after I hired him for a project that was supposed to take 2 weeks, he agreed to refund my deposit, but said it would be several weeks and he would issue a refund on June 1st. He said he needed the money for "cancer treatment". If he needed the money, he should have just finished the project, instead of keeping a deposit for a project he never intended to finish. This was one of his final emails:

Quote:

I understand your point of view and I respect it, but I wasn't ignoring you.

I will be honest with you, I have being diagnosed with cancer and I was doing chemotherapy, belive me, checking my emails was my last concern from all.
I admit it is not really a professional way to act, but I considered that my health and family were more important at this point. I don't wish to anyone to be in my place right now.
With your permission, I will refund your 50 $ on the 1st of June, right now all my money were spent on treatment, which is not cheap at all, and I will get some money on 1st of June, until then, I can't. If you don't agree, I will try to borrow 50 $ to refund them earlier

As you can see, he acknowledges his lack of response to my previous emails, and clearly agreed to refund my deposit.

I have all emails saved as evidence, and will be also reporting him for fraud on paypal.

Anyway, it is now June 19th, almost 3 weeks since he promised to refund my deposit, and he has not done so. He doesn't respond to emails, and has completely disappeared.

DO NOT HIRE Andrei Buletin! He took my deposit, didn't complete the job, didn't issue a refund as promised, and doesn't respond to emails anymore. He is a con artist. STAY AWAY, unless you want to lose your money.

PS: I know the mods here on shapeways have deleted some earlier posts about problems with Andrei, but it is important to share this kind of information so that other people don't get ripped off. That makes the community stronger. I would welcome a response from Andrei if he dares, and would be happy to edit my post if he ever does make the situation right. But I would hate to see anyone else on shapeways get ripped off by this guy as well. Also, if the mods here doubt the sincerity of my post, feel free to private message me, and I can forward all emails to you to show in detail what transpired.

UPDATE (6-20-2013): Andrei has now refunded my deposit. He also asked that I be clear about the fact that even though he never finished the project, before he stopped responding to email, he did provide some sample diagrams for an unfinished design (around mid April). These were png images that were not printable, and not complete.
