I created this for a co-worker of mine, who wanted a super-villain version of himself (hence, no hair). We had a fair amount of correspondence while I designed. He was particularly excited the day I showed him the render with electricity arcing down the sword. The print turned out well (a tad over 2.4 inches tall). I am sorry that I forgot to give the coat a bit more wrinkles and definition, though.

"Why could they not see that this was the only way? They had brought this on themselves. He averted his gaze as the harsh glow and grim hum swelled in the place that would have been his hand. A moment later, the kickback shoved him backwards in the dirt, knocking a few tears off his glistening cheeks."
