Friends,

I have been trying every possible export format from Form-Z and I just can't get the model to look right in any supported format. Does anyone have experience with this? It appears to support a lot of features and I've tried numerous settings for STL and VRML and tried also every format that MeshLab supports and there are problems with all of them!

Perhaps someone has experience with this and can tell me the magical formula - though at this point I'd rather have someone else do the conversion for a fee or a commission from possible sales on this site.

Thank you

Ziggy
