Hi all,

we had a minor site update today. We released the following features:

Login lightbox

When you click the login link on the top of the screen you now get a nice login lightbox instead of a login page.

Improvement of the product search

In the past you could only find products if your search term was a substring or a single keyword of the title, description, tag etc of your product. Now, if you enter more than one keyword in your search term, it will also give results for the individual keywords.

Kind regards,

Barry
