I am using google chrome (in case that is important to know for this), and I used to be able to type in the final price I wanted the item to be for each material (one at a time), and the SW page would do the math and show the markup amount.

Today I tried to do it, and when I typed in the final price section, it made that the markup causing the final price to be too much.

So, I did the math myself, and typed in the markup, and some times it worked, sometimes when I hit "update price" button, it changed it to some other number.

I don't know if I am the only one having this problem though.

yah been having this problem for a long time. I just assume it is 1 of the new bugs shapeways is adding daily and use CSV instead. They are getting pretty good at crippling the site with new bugs.
