Ok, i got an email from the Admins saying this is on there bug list. Any experiences about how long something like this takes?

The developers are overworked, undercaffineated, and generally "busy". (GRIN)

You can see the list of projects at <http://feedback.shapeways.com> .. there you can vote for your favorite projects (or pet peeve) and help establish the importance of the issues.

Even the voting there won't necessarily dictate what gets fixed first (I heard rumbling about a problem with VAT that's not even on the list), but this will at least let them know what's most important to us, and they're willing to allow us help set their priorities.

Since this is a bug and not a feature request i thought this would not be the appropriate way to ask for a change of it... And although the email from the admins told me that it was on the list, but its not on this one...

Added it to the list anyway,... maybe some kind soul finds a way to deal with it...
