
Subject: More questions!

Posted by SturdyPeasantWoman on Tue, 24 Jan 2012 21:51:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When I upload more than one design of a ring or earrings and under my models it shows the generic design, how can I tell which design is which ring really?

And is there a way to give an item a name if you forgot to do it when you uploaded it?

Oh, and how do you list a ring for sale to the public?

That's it for now!

Thank you.

-Sherry

Subject: Re: More questions!

Posted by pfeiffer stylez on Tue, 24 Jan 2012 22:42:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sturdy Peasant Woman wrote on Tue, 24 January 2012 21:51: When I upload more than one design of a ring or earrings and under my models it shows the generic design, how can I tell which design is which ring really?

While in "Edit Mode", each model page shows the name of the file you've uploaded, and the upload date.

Sturdy Peasant Woman wrote on Tue, 24 January 2012 21:51: And is there a way to give an item a name if you forgot to do it when you uploaded it?

While in "Edit Mode", just click on the model's title (above the photo container).

Sturdy Peasant Woman wrote on Tue, 24 January 2012 21:51: Oh, and how do you list a ring for sale to the public?

Like any other model. Make it "Display to the public" and "Offer for sale to others".

Subject: Re: More questions!

Posted by SturdyPeasantWoman on Wed, 25 Jan 2012 05:53:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That all worked great except for the rings and earrings. I found no button to go into edit mode for those, and no clue as to which image had been downloaded.

Subject: Re: More questions!

Posted by SturdyPeasantWoman on Wed, 25 Jan 2012 06:05:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I wanted to show the screen as it appears for both rings and earrings. What am I doing wrong?

File Attachments

1) Draw Own Ring page.jpg, downloaded 51 times
