Hi guys,

I'd made a couple of these before as part of a mini internal competition I run within work ( @ creative agency ) for a bit of fun outside of the main workflow. For the next round we had 4 winners so four new models!

The prize is to have yourself made into a 3d pixel character, so they're the miniature likeness of the individuals that won.

The last time I done this managed to get them together pretty well minus a few glitches on the models that I couldn't work out how to iron out (curse you, water tight mesh!). Anyway, this time round managed to master the way of getting them into shapeways systems glitch free so really pleased with the results.

Let me know what you think!
